

From: Jim
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/15/02 1:29pm
Subject: DOJ vs Microsoft

The point of antitrust investigation is to protect the public interest from businesses that abuse the customer. Microsoft has always sold an excellent product at well below fair market prices. Take Windows XP for example, it's priced less than $200 while its biggest competitor "Linux" sells for over $300 and the origin of Linux was a "free" program. How can this be monopolistic? DOJ, please don't screw up another business like you did to AT&T. That "breakup" sure didn't do much for the customer.

Jim Krass
1226 Main St.
Windermere, FL 34786